Consolidated Services International, Inc. (CSI) has identified the rapidly growing Southeast Asia region as the focal point of its business efforts. With offices in the U.S., Panama and a regional office located in Indonesia, CSI has positioned itself for long-term involvement in several core business interests. The primary activities of CSI Asia consist of security services and risk management support to commercial and governmental organizations throughout the Asia Pacific Region.

For security services, CSI routinely works as a partner with international security firms throughout the world. CSI is a member of the World Association of Detectives and is the Indonesian representative for the global network of companies under the Global Credit Solutions.

Physical Security

(PT Interteknis Suryaterang)

PT Interteknis Suryaterang (IST), a subsidiary of Consolidated Services International, Inc (CSI), has continually provided critical support during deteriorating economic or political situations in Indonesia that have placed business interests at increasing risk. Labor strikes, riots, mass demonstrations, and reduced protection from normal government security forces have always become daunting challenges to businesses striving to continue operations within the challenging developing nation environments. In response to an increasing demand for security consulting services to improve corporate preparedness prior to facing security threats, IST began providing Physical Security services at the start of 1998.

Physical Security services have included site surveys necessary to provide clients with an in-depth review of physical security procedures and review of Emergency Implementation Plan and security guard readiness. Survey results have provided a detailed guideline for improvement of procedures and other physical components of installation protection plans. For corporations desiring that extra measure of readiness to face most foreseeable challenges from social disorder to natural disasters, a crisis management exercise can be provided to drill key leaders in emergency security roles and permit testing security procedures under simulated conditions. For corporations requiring professional response in an emergency, an IST Crisis Management Center is provided with several alternatives to include contract security managers, security escort service, emergency aircraft scheduling, and site or residence patrols and executive protection (bodyguards) among others.

Unique to the region, IST has prepared a team of well-trained and organized security instructors who are capable of providing a comprehensive training program to achieve various levels of security personnel competence. The training provided does not end with single courses, but offers a progression to leadership levels and offers refresher training to maintain a high level of competence. At the beginning of 1999, in response to market demand for higher quality and professionalism among their security guard contingent, IST began providing contract security guards to corporate clients.

Business Research Center (PT Consolidated Survey Indonesia)

CSI management has been focusing on providing timely political and security analysis and directed corporate information searches affecting business activities since 1991. One readily apparent obstacle to efficient corporate planning in Southeast Asia has been the absence of basic business information. In recognition of this critical need for providing up-to-date information with discretion and confidentiality, CSI established a research unit now called the Business Research Center under local subsidiary PT Consolidated Survey Indonesia (PT CSV).

PT CSV employs local resources to perform its tasks for clients and organizes the teams especially for each mission. Resources include experienced local nationals with legal, socio-political, journalist, and insurance research backgrounds. CSI routinely employs talented field researchers with good initiative and well focused upon task accomplishment. The teams have continually provided reliable research and reporting for insurance fraud, anti-counterfeit marketing surveys, business fraud, and asset searches and corporate due diligence cases together with tracing of assets/persons, debt collection and frequent conduct of corporate & individual background investigations along with emergency security escort services. Many investigations begin with requests for what are referred to as "Corporate Profiles". These profiles provide the background of ownership, investment, related industries, and key business relationships related to potential Indonesian or partner firms.
